An Epitaph.

The tired salesman stopped to rest. The cashier smiled a smile; At last it's ten o'clock said he, We'll get to rest awhile.

"What means this rush?" a stranger said, "Where are those people going?" As into the doors of the Golden Rule a human tide went flowing.

"Why, don't you see," the Lewis cried, As soon as time allowed, "We're giving this fine stock away. Look at the buying crowd!"

The stranger from his grippe drew A patent pill filled with red, And wrote on the side of the Golden Rule: "High Prices They Are Dead!"

MANY MATTERS.

Wise and Otherwise, Concerning Our City.

Interesting Interviews—Pulling the Shoveels—Fear of Fire—And Other Pithy Paragraphs for the Pleasing of Persons.

"Mr. Levr," said the reporter to the junior member of the well known grocery and bakery firm on the Plaza, "you are handling the flour of our new roller mill, what do you think of it?" "Why, sir, we are delighted with it. We consume about 400 pounds of flour daily in our business, and it has long been our custom to use Denver and Kansas flour mixed in the proportions of half and half. We are now using the Las Vegas flour in place of the Denver, with entire satisfaction to ourselves and our patrons. Not only this, but we had a large run of custom in the Pride of Denver for family use. After we began handling the Las Vegas flour, as our customers sent in their orders we would fill them with the home article, and in not a single case has the flour been returned or complaint made. It is a demonstrated fact that flour can be made right here at home, as good and as cheap as that which we have been sending our money out of the territory to get. Of course it will take some time to substitute all the foreign brands by the home production, even if the mill had sufficient capacity for that amount of production, which it has not at present; and then there are always people who will not believe that home products can compete with imported articles. But the important point is that a beginning has been made, and an excellent one at that, in an industry which will speedily prove of inestimable benefit to country and its contributory country. The new departure of our mill in putting up flour in twenty-five pound sacks is also a taking feature with many of our poorer citizens. In fact it is so popular that we can scarcely keep on hand a sufficient supply of these packages."

Mr. MERVIN, of the music house of Marcolino & Co., thought that there had been an improvement recently in the condition of financial affairs. What he judged from was the state of his own business. Musical instruments and musical merchandise are not considered among the necessities of life. They belong to its luxuries. Consequently when times begin to pinch they are in the line of expenditure in which economy first begins to be practiced. So on the improvement of the times the trade in music and its accessories is last to join the upward tendency. Thus he considered his own business one of the best thermometers to show the fluctuations in the general condition of financial affairs. Judging, then, from the marked improvement of the last few weeks, he thought the times must be easing up considerably.

Rogens Bros., the Bridge street blacksmiths, were the next ones interviewed. They were so busy they scarcely had any time to devote to the reporter. They heard a good deal of talk about hard times and dullness in business, but for themselves they had more work than they could do. In fact if they only knew just where to get the right men, they would increase their force. It is true never get any worse than at present they would be more than satisfied. And so smiling blandly at the reporter they went on about their work.

"I have read," said Colonel T. B. Mills to a reporter, "the synopsis of the Cullum railroad bill, as published in THE GAZETTE, and I cannot see the great good New Mexico will derive from it. Not that such a bill, if of the right kind, would be non-beneficial, but only that this particular bill is not the right one. To my mind the bill has been gotten up in the interest of roads, and while professedly to prevent discriminations and to protect the people, it is intentionally so constructed as to render it inefficient and inoperative. In the first place there are some 125,000 miles of railroads in the United States, and all these with all the offences which may be committed upon them are under the jurisdiction of seven men. The more the law is violated the more impossible it is that these men can examine into the cases and bring the violators to punishment. The results would be that years upon years must elapse between the violation and the final decision, if indeed any such decision should ever be reached. Then, too, there is no penalty attached to the violation other than the restoration of the amount overcharged. Who, in cases where the extortion is only $35 or less, will go to the expense, annoyance and loss of time to carry the matter up before these commissioners, when it is very uncertain whether it will be reached by them during the lifetime of the complainant? The bill, for these and other reasons, furnishes no remedy for the things complained of."

Localities.

THE GAZETTE employees have organized a base ball nine to play against the crack nine of the city next Sunday.

The family of W. H. H. Lowellyn, of Las Cruces, were grief-stricken last Thursday by the death of one of a pair of twin girls about seven months of age.

Information has been received here that J. R. Schrimmschere, the horse thief who was arrested near Liberty some time since, and taken to Texas, has escaped from the jail in which he was confined.

The wall in the rear of the Furlong building strikes the eye of many as not built in proper relation to the current of the river. Were it slanted with the stream it would resist the pressure, but standing at right angles it is liable to be washed away.

The Kansas City Times, of May 22, says: "Mr. Wilson Waddingham yesterday closed the purchase of five-sixteenths of the Goodrich property of Mr. Samuel Kelly of New York for $375,000. The deed will go on record to-day."

A. J. Whippman, who has been so long in charge of Wyman's jewelry store, takes a position today with E. W. Sebbens. Mr. Whippman is a first-class jeweler, and Mr. Sebbens' patrons can now be assured of having work entrusted to him done promptly and in superior style.

Las Vegas has the champion water drinker of the territory, if not of the union. James Cell was yesterday throwing dice, the penalty being that the loser should drink a quart of water or treat the crowd. Cell lost five times in succession, and within about fifteen minutes drank five quarts, or ten pounds of water.

M. L. Cooley and J. T. Bradford returned from the Q. & N. & Las Vegas Cattle company's ranch yesterday. They were well pleased with the outlook, as they found cattle in much better condition than they had expected. They report the country very dry, but no great losses are anticipated in that section if rains should come in a short time.

At the office of one of our real estate agents was seen something which speaks for itself. In four boxes are samples of Kansas wheat as graded and furnished by one of their mills. Beside them are two samples of New Mexico wheat, as taken, one from our mill in Las Vegas and one from La Cueva. Any man with half an eye can see the superiority of the New Mexico article.

Some eight or nine boys arrived Sunday from old Mexico to attend the Jesuit college in our city. This makes a number of young men from our sister republic who are now attending this most excellent institution. The idea is a good one. The intercourse between the two countries will every year become more intimate, and those young men who have been educated in the United States and have become familiar with our language and customs, will have a great advantage over those educated at home.

Mrs. Aquinos is visiting old friends in the city. She is now of Tucson, Arizona, but twenty-five years ago she was a citizen of Las Vegas, living on south Pacific street, just south of where Munimer's grocery now is. Her husband, who was from Old Mexico, owned a large number of mule teams, and freighted from Kansas City to Las Cruces and into Arizona. He has been dead for a number of years, and Mrs. Aquinos, on her way to Kansas City, her girlhood's home, stopped off to see friends in Las Vegas.

About six o'clock last evening the alarm of fire was raised, and for a little while considerable excitement prevailed on the east side and the neighborhood of Center street. The fire proved to be in the roof of a house on Eighth street, immediately in the rear of the new stone building J. H. Ward is erecting. The house is occupied at present by Wm. Gibbs and family, and the fire caught from a defective flue. It was extinguished before the hose company reached the spot. One thing worthy of notice is that just as soon as some one began ringing the bell, the rope became entangled and the bell could not be rung for quite a little while. With this may be put the fact that a few nights ago when the alarm of fire was raised on the east side, word was telephoned over for the west side to be rung. One not familiar with the house ran up there, lighted the gas and searched diligently, but never was able to find the bell rope. As a result the west side hose company was not summoned. The safety of the city demands that these bell ropes be not only placed so that any stranger can find them, but that they cannot be fouled or entangled by any means.

Of the parties who, by their shooting, disturbed the peace of the town on Saturday night and succeeded in eluding the police, three were arrested Sunday and yesterday brought before Justice Uihbarri. They were Joe Cameron, Ike Aldrich and Tom Kane. The fourth, Billy Shag, could not be at the time because Colonel Friess and prosecutor and Judge Shields defended. The first charge was that of carrying concealed weapons, and a fine of $25 each and costs was assessed. The trial upon other charges will be continued today. There is great indignation throughout the city that such an outrage should have been perpetrated upon the good order of our city. Many delicate ladies were frightened almost into illness, and one young lady, Miss Hyatt, who was already quite low, will probably not recover. One fellow, a painter named Frank something or other, undertook to curse one of the witnesses for the prosecution. He found himself arrested and in jail so quickly that he did not have time to finish his abuse. His trial will also come off this morning. The people of Las Vegas are determined that law and order shall be preserved.

Miss Mollinelli in the East.

A. B. Anderson of Washington has been requested to assume the management of Miss Florence Mollinelli, the young tragedienne of Denver, Colorado, who made her debut during the season with Salvini. She is said to be an ideal Juliet, possessing great talent and beauty, and is of one of the first families of the west.

A shower of rain yesterday evening was a blessing upon this section for which the people have been sometime praying. It is hoped that the rain was general throughout the country as it is very badly needed to put the range in good condition to support cattle and sheep.
